In case you won't be aware, we have a nice weekend right on the horizon: Friday 13, immediately followed by Valentine's Day on February 14th. Furthermore, the fifty shades of the gray film affect the theaters on February 13th, just in time for the special day. Of course, the die-hard books of the book have contact up to the fifty-year-old gradients of Gray Release before the film has also been made - in fact, copious quantities of people bought tickets in advance, and tickets are also so certain after the stations Radio started to give her away as a prize with lotteries. I bet some people are even in progress - or at least, delaying - Valentine's plans are just to see this movie. That being said, the perfect event requires the list of perfect guests. This means that you should probably think twice about those who invite you to go to the cinema with you when this movie hits the theaters in a few short days - this is particularly true given the Racy (Haha Understatement) content. There are many people you shouldn't take to see fifty shades of gray, because the embarrassment is not worth it. Discontinue this. Your parents don't want to watch any kind of sex scene with their parents. Most people watching through their parents end up having to get piped for a non-realistic period of time, or pretending to be really worried about their mobile phones during sex scenes. But when an entire film revolves around sexual scenes, seeing with your parents he is only asking for problems. Also, do you know how to like parents to discuss almost everything with their children? Could you imagine going to dinner with your parents just to have your mother to bring ball gags and blindfolded eyes? This is the type of conversation you would like you to unauth. Our grandparents is a bit like you don't want your parents see the movie, but potentially worse Å ¸ à,~ "I don't think I need to explain why. A first datethis is simply embarrassing. The first dates are already rather Uncomfortable, so why on earth would you go to see this movie with someone who can't barely know? your siblingsquesto is asking for an embarrassment of 120 minutes. An odif is excited to see fifty shades of gray, the last person you want to bring Å ¸ à.~ A total hadistor. Comments are going all the time, making fun of the movie and probably tease you to be interested. The content of this film is not for everyone and it's okay, but you should surround yourself with people who are on Same page. Because yes, you know that many of the scenes will be so unrealistic, but you don't even care about Å ¸ à.~ "So why let a hadder ruins your good time? A toppeewe you are all annoyed by the toppers. Toppers are people who just have to overcome everything you say. They have to one on one on every story and, most of the time you know that they are only lying through your teeth. That said, you don't want to see fifty shades of gray with a topper, unless you want to hear them talk about how the film is so boring, and how all these sexual acts have already been done (but better, and above a roller unit or something like that). They annoy you more than usual, and they really take you away from the film's observation experience. A gigglero be honest, this is on me. I laugh every single day. Sometimes it's really nice and captivating and other times people can't help me fix because I'm laughing hysterically during a serious moment. A friend without a kernel are some friends you're used to invite everywhere, but this is the type of event you want only interested parties. Want to invite book enthusiasts, people with an open mind, your friend Racy, etc. - You don't want a friend who does a million Questions all the time. You don't want to remind you of the characters names or explains how this BDSM report works. You just want to watch the film in peace. Judgmental can not invite the friend of judgment. The judging friend will make you feel uncomfortable for This film, and to those who care if you want to see fifty shades of gray in peace? Who cares if you take part in BDSM? It's your life, and you can be interested in what you want! Having a judging friend in the seat next to you will make it very difficult to enjoy your night, and trust me, we were all waiting for too long for this film to be released to deal with that. Images: Giphy (9); Tumblr (2) are fifty gray season shades, with the film that debut tomorrow, and you made the conscious decision to see it, or the conscious decision to understand a way to tell the people who will see it without it seems that you really want to see it (Even if you do it totally). If it is the latter, you probably get this justification to offer those curious of your weekend plans. Why with all the lowly written lines of the book, what the person who respects the person observed fifty shades of gray in serious, amirite? Ahahah ... okay, but let's make a real speech, though. I'm Mary Grace. You don't have to hide the truth. You, sincerely, in your hearts' heart they just want to look at the story of a sadist of the dotting billionaire and his sweaty girl and with his eyes wide open / submissive? (Don't worry, let's all do!) You can tell me, you will not respect you less. Well, okay, you won't respect you much less, but I doubt that some of you are laughing to earn my respect. You are a grown and a champion, and if you sincerely want to see fifty shades of gray, then more power. But honestly, don't pepper the desire with lots of false apologies and lies. For example, these common lines we will all feel in short ... 1. "I will see the sexual scenes." This is the milk of excuses pumpkin spice, and while there is a certain degree of truth there, they are of a strong belief that you don't have to turn to fifty shades of gray for titration purposes. There is a lot of stellar written erotics outside (I love anaÅ ¸ jã 's nin at the end of the earth and back) and super sexy movies you can transmit from the comfort of your Netflix account. Want to see fifty shades for more than sex scenes, so right! 2. "I'm going to laugh at this." There is nothing better than pulling a scientific theater of mystery 3000 with your friends, but we are realistic: the rifing is done better with a bottle or two of wine in the comfort of your home, not surrounded by fan packages Horny and rabidi. Less than the free movie, I don't see how you couldn't wait until you exit the DVD to hit the movie. It's a fragile excuse, and I can see just through it. What else? 3. "I'm just going because my friend / boyfriend / girlfriend / cat wants to go." If I were really still standing without seeing fifty nuances, you would not agree to spend money on a movie ticket, no matter how many individual goals the pals try to make you go. We are realistic. What else? 4. "I'm just going because I heard critics enthusiastic reviews." To be honest, there are some good reviews there outside, with crazy quantities of money spent for it I hope that Sam Taylor-Johnson and Co. would do better than they can with the source material.5. "He used it in my masters' thesis on previous media portraits of the BDSM community and is an effect on average woman." Okay, actually I didn't hear it before, but it looks really excellent to watch the movie. You can use this, for free, if nothing else comes to mind. You are welcome.Images: Universal Pictures (1), Gippy (5) Curious ladies and gentlemen, time is finally upon us: fifty shades of gray open in theaters this weekend. It's not just your average day at the cinema. This bad guy is hitting the big screen just before Valentine's Day, so it's not just a premiere, it's an event. The sparking story of a Luxury between Anastasia Steele and Christian Gray has completely fascinated from your next door with strange dolls in the window window Your coach in the gym Å ¸ à.~ "In fact, there is no true" type "of fifty nuances, because everyone talks about it. And, sorry tweeter snarky in the world, the film actually reviews solid reviews from critics. so we are all totally justified in our desire to go see it precisely this second. What should not be intrigued by? The plot follows a good look Å ¸ à.~ "Excuse me - inexplicably beautiful friend, and a wonderful woman who It involves in the type of material that many of us are too embarrassed to open up! This is the time when we got our fear, in an elegant and socially acceptable way. This is a film made for real people with real fantasies that just want to have a sexy getaway. And, in reality, is there a better treatment for Valentine's Day of steam escapism? (No, no there is.) So, while you're fighting the crowd this weekend for the seat with the best view "What I imagine is everything Å ¸ à.~" Here are all the people you'll see This weekend at fifty shades of gray: the drunk group of Bfsthey will probably interrupt the film 15 times, but their comment will probably be hilarious. The rachiorette Partyylike the previous group, but with more "Woo" -ing. The embarrassed boyfriend will be there. In spades. The safe and secure boyfriend, will probably have a little rather large sex later. Kudos. The person shaking their copy of the books I understand, you need something with yourself with yourself. The mom / daughter of the poorly planned daughter are something like Lorelai and Rory, they can look like the drunk group of BFFS.The boy who resembles Jamie Dormannice, Bro. The group of singles who will take Thicksyeah, everyone wants Gray Christian Gray - I'm sorry. The grandmothers who hope to be a day that is not excited, if not more, and you find this incredibly stimulating. The friend's friend's friend is just going because she "didn't want to be left out" and she thinks the film is just ", lightning." (Secretly lover every minute of it.) The questionable Lonerwhw are here and why do you wear a baseball hat? The obsessed fan wearing a fifty shady t-shirt with bondage straps above it. A look ... I suppose? Title, you know you're going.
