The landlady roald dahl characters

WHAT IS BEING FORESHADOWED? And now a queer thing happened to him. He was in the act of stepping back and turning away from the window when all at once his eye was caught and held in the most peculiar manner by the small notice that was there. " ...and we don't want to go breaking any laws at this stage in the proceedings, do we?" "His landlady wasn't there, but the fire was glowing in the hearth, and the little daschund was still sleeping soundly in front of it." "Now and again, he caught a whiff of a peculiar smell that seemed to emanate directly from her person...he wasn't quite sure what it reminded him of? Pickled walnuts? New leather? Or was it the corridors of a hospital?" "The tea tasted faintly of bitter almonds, and he didn't much care for it." The words "queer" and "peculiar" indicate that something is happening beyond Billy's control. The use of these words suggests should be on alert. The stress on "this stage" suggests that she will probably want to break a law later in the story. Because it is unusual that the dog is still sleeping soundly, this hints at the fact that something is not normal with the dog. In fact, he ends up being dead and stuffed. Maybe the lady has something to do with hospitals; she might pickle or preserve things. This foreshadows the fact that she has stuffed her parrot and dog. The tea has been poisoned, and Billy will be the landlady's next victim. In order to continue enjoying our site, we ask that you confirm your identity as a human.
