It's all about catching big bass all day rap song.

SoundCloud has often been a favorite destination for the discovery of music a, but the226; he has never had anything beyond manual playlists. Now thethe226; take a page from Spotify's immensely popular song suggestions with a new algorithmic recommendation engine of them. SoundCloud is introducing the suggested tracks. These new recommendations of songs are based on your listening activity in all SoundCloud platforms so that you provide the best songs for your tastes. You can find it under a new Discover tab on the web. About algorithms, how do you feel about the new algorithmic Instagram timeline? I find quite subtle that I don't really care, even though it's occasionally a bit surprising to see things I know are old at the top of my feed. Elsewhere 226; 128; — some people are less happy. [Gizmodo] Speaking of Instagram and of recommendations generated algorithmically, thei226; more, add personalized video tips to the Exploring tab for when you feel like looking without thoughts some feeds you have Doná.; and you already subscribe. [Instagram Blog]Filters similar to Snapchat come on Facebook Live, after their acquisition of MSQRD earlier this year. I can't wait for journalists to deal with important political discussions on Facebook Live while wearing beautiful dog faces. [The Verge]226; If you're one of almost half a million Americans with Volkswagen diesel, you can get up to $7,000 cash directly from VW, as Automotive News reports.' [Jalopnik]The Nintendo 64 is 20 years old today. As I clearly recall that first moment when my elder brother and I fell home from the shop (Babbages?), fell into Mario 64, and heard á,—, Mario! ti' [Kotaku] My eight-year-old best friend and four-year college buddy can probably tell you that my mornings aren't very nice. Not only do I detest the phrase "the early bird catches the worm," but if you want to avoid the wrath of Emma in the morning, it is better to be prepared with a large coffee and breakfast sandwich in hand. So after many cruelly silent and grumpy mornings, we decided to add some music to cheerful to our program. Not only did these songs help us kick those blues Mondays, but they generally helped us to start all our mornings on the right side of the bed, despite the long day of the school coming, o you á simply need a better way to start your day, these songs below should help you get there. You'll probably listen to these melodies so often that you'll find yourself singing in the shower and while you226; to paint your Easy A-style nails. After that, you'll see your mornings in a completely different way and "assulted" could even look into them. "Walking On Sunshine" —→; Katrina &L'ÓndasThis song screams happiness. There226; really nothing better than a song to feel good to start yourn Yourself" á Ziggy Marley or Chance the RapperYou wouldn't believe (or maybe you would) how many times my roommate and I played this our freshman year. Yes, it might be Arthur's theme song, but there's a reason why it made us happy when we were little. Because he's a bomb".With a little help from my friends" á The BeatlesRingo Starr was always everyone's favorite. This will definitely put a smile on your face. "Over The Rainbow" á Israel Kamakawiwoáole I could cry so many happy tears listening to this song. So quiet and beautifully sung, it is the best song to keep calm in the morning. "Ready or Not" á Bridgit MendlerLike a young Natasha Bedingfield, Mendler has a way of singing. Don't underestimate the power of this former Disney Channel star. No. "Cassy O" — George Ezra If this British singer's cheerful song doesn't make you go in the morning, then I don't know what he'll do. Who doesn't want a British man to sing to them in the morning? "Get me before you go" — Wham! Some songs make you want to dance in your underwear and sing in a brush. This is one of them. "Wouldn't it be nice" á Beach BoysBeach Boys to keep things right? Classic".Clint Eastwood" á Gorillaz If only I could really carry the sun in a bag. At least I can get it on my iPod with the Gorillaz. " This will be á Natalie Cole Not only does this song play during The Parent Trap (already doing the best) but it's also super uplifting. Please." Ainät No Mountain High Enough" á Marvin GayeThink Ryan Gosling in Remember the Titans. If that doesn't make you happy, then there is a deeper problem that we need to discuss. "Hawaian Roller Coaster Ride" á Mark Keali'i Ho'omalu and Kamehameha Schools Children's ChorusLio and Stitch was probably one of the best Disney movies ever with one of the biggest soundtracks to accompany it. Disney knows how to find some catchy shots".Feeling Good" á Nina Simone or Michael BubleHonesty, a whole playlist of this Frank Sinatra twin could wake me up in the morning. However, since I can only pick one song, this cover of Simone's Feeling Good should do. Swoon worthy" Sometimes someone says" á Carla BruniSometimes it's nice to hear something slow in the morning, especially if you're not one to go from dead walking to caffeine addict excited instantly. Take a deep breath with this beautiful French song to create positive vibes".An Irish party in the third class" á Gaelic StormOkay, so Titanic was pretty sad, especially when someone (ahem, Rose) wouldn't share the door with Jack, but this Irish song will make you want to celebrate. Even in the morning. And there is nothing wrong with a little dance to start the day. "Love Today" á MikaMika is basically the god of happy songs with that incredibly high-pitched voice of hers. Tell me This won't do you in the morning, I'm like a bird Nelly Nelly I'm sad that Furtado had kids and stopped singing to be a mom (but for her), he has some pretty great songs in his repertoire. It will make you wait for the day of work that awaits you".Ain'Á It It FunÁ" Á"ParamoreÁ" There is something so carefree about this song Paramore, even if it is about learning to grow and become independent. Also, Hayley Williams' vocals are always horny".Daylight" Matt and KimBesides their brilliant chemistry, this dynamic duo has provided the world with one of the most vibrant songs ever. If you don't already, you'll play this song over and over again".Dog Days Are Over" Florence and the MachineI just want to clap my hands and jump on my bed to listen to this song. It's almost impossible to have a bad day after listening to this song".Send Me On My Way" "Ruted RootEvery time I listen to this song, I feel like I'm going to some kind of exotic and tropical destination. You might not be lucky enough to be on vacation while you listen to this song, but at least it'll help you lift your spirits in the morning.Images: flattop341/Flickr; glee/Wikia; gifsoup (7); acatinvain, imgif, reasonstosmle, funnygirls-help, jackdawsonfan, inretrospect90 s/Tumblr, wifflegif (4); weheartit; musiccrowgirl, rebloggy Bob Dylan and Joan Baez [Rowland Scherman/National Archive/Newsmakers Valentine's Day is almost here, and if you've been procrastinating in figuring out what to do for your girlfriend, remember there's nothing more old-fashioned and romantic than listening to records. Here is a list of the 10 most romantic rock and roll love songs to listen to with your loved one, preferably on vinyl. As Jack White once said, "Digital in the car, vinyl in the bedroom." 1. "Visions of Johanna, Bob Dylan Another 1966 song" Blonde on Blonde, "Just Like a Woman", is a more typical answer you get when you ask what Bob Dylan's most romantic song is. But the feverish dream of 7 minutes and more of "Visions of Johanna" contains more beautiful poems and does not have the slightly condescending tone of "Just Like a Woman." The narrator spends most of the song describing the charismatic Louise, but it's the elusive Johanna who can'tIn this room the heat pipes only cough / Country music station sounds weak / But there's nothing, really nothing to turn off / Only Louise and her lover so= intertwined / And these visions of Johanna that conquer my mind. Á" 2 Á"Dead Leaves and the Dirty Ground, Á" The White Stris Á"Soft Hair and Velvety TongueÁ" / I want to give you what you give me / Every breath you have in your lungs / It's a little present for me, Á" Jack White sings in the opening track of White Blood Cells, the The album that made the White Stripes famous. This is one of the most straightforward love songs on Stripes, not covered by infantile-love quirks. After another 13 years of hyperproductivity in a Acts, Dead Leaves is like Whitey's greatest love song. Three. Crazy, Patsy Cline Patsy Cline226; 128? Crazy is one of the best known and loved love songs of all time. The song was written by Willy Nelson and recorded by Cline in the 1961's. She went to Cline's catapult from a favorite Opry to a pet name. It is an ode to the irrationality of love that has been covered by many, but no one can equal Clients 128; s silky voice and heartbroken delivery. The song compares love to being crazy, preceded future scientific research that has shown romantic love and mental illness causing similar chemical changes in the brain. Four! Something, The Beatles This George Harrison-penned tune is generally considered the Beatles to be the most romantic song to, and the band has a plethora of songs that could easily have done it on this list. Harrison was notoriously reluctant to say who wrote the song, only it was 128; t for his wife at the time. What? It was released as a single by 1969th Abbey Road, Harrison's first and only contribution to the United States rankings. He was praised by Lennon and McCartney as one of the Beatles. "Best songs and remains one of the most beautiful love songs ever written. I think it's about the best track on the album, actually Lennon said in 1969. Five. 126? "and-and-and-and-and-and-and-and-and-and-and-and-and-and-and-and"? 2; 2; 2; 2; 2; 126? ÁFilled with typically bold texts, m not painted with its normal bitterness. The eardrum accompanies the sound of a heart button and is available enough to show Apple226; "Harmonies with herself and her sister Maude Maggart, who sings with her on the track. This is the best song by 2012sIdler Wheel excellent. Six. Hey, Good Eye? Hank Williams The Hillbilly Shakespeare is perhaps more famous for writing songs about having a broken heart, but he had to fall in love first to reach the slopes of the'and' Loneo l Cour Cry. Williams wrote many of his most heard songs about his wife Audrey, who is generally blamed for being a manipulator and for ruining her life, but this song reminds fans that at some point he really liked her. Hey, Good Lookin'Williams is the most famous and optimistic love song. Seven. This popular standard was first covered by Leadbelly in 1933 and was later recorded by a plethora of different artists such as Frank Sinatra, Johnny Cash, and Jack White. Ma Leadbelly226; The version, with all the suicidal fantasies left intact, is the most powerful. The complicated song at the beginning looks like a person who sings a sweet good night to his beloved is up to 128; s revealed that the sleep the narrator talks about is death. I love Irene, God knows I do the sea runs dry / But if Irene turns on me / I'll take morphine and die,á Leadbelly sings, how life is unfathomable without her beloved Irene. 8. "Perfect Day", Lou Reed This track from the 1972 Transformer shows a rare moment of Lou Reed becoming overtly sentimental. The song is about a "perfect day" where the narrator does perfectly average things with his beloved, including going to the movies, going to the park and coming home early. "It's such a perfect day / you just keep me hanging, "Reed sings over a string accompaniment. "You made me forget While there's some debate about whether the song is about Reed's first wife Bettye Kronstad or the other love of her life, heroin, it's a nice ode about how even the most monotonous aspects of life can become "perfect" when you share it with someone you love. 9. áGigantic,á The Pixies This track from the album of alternative icons Surfer Rosa is at its heart about voyeurism, but the melody is so damn catchy that the chorus of ágigantic / a great, great loveá might just as easily be about the love of the couple that is looked at as the sex organ of the man. This poppier song from the Pixies catalog was written by bassist Kim Deal and frontman Black Francis. Francis told SELECT magazine that, "I had the word "giant" in my mind just because the progression of the rope seemed very big to me." The melody of the song makes two people watch having sex in the woods and admiring their love seems sweet á showing that love should be appreciated even when it doesn't involve you personally. 10. áOne Way or Another,á Blondie Blondie frontwoman Debbie Harry was inspired to write this song about an ex-boyfriend who stalked her, according to biographer Cathy Che. The track was Parallel Lines' fourth single of 1979 and retains more of the band's original punk swagger from their CBGB days than the first hit "Heart of Glass." Sung from a beautiful woman's perspective, the song sounds less stalkerish and more about sexual obsession á after all, who wouldn't want Debbie Harry to stalk them? Check out Cheat's Facebook page!
