My dream house paragraph pdf

Photo: Shutterstockif you are building a house from scratch, or even putting an addition to your current home, you are in the unique location of being able to install systems and components that could be difficult to incorporate into existing structures. From the Nirvana entertainment to Bath Bliss, now it's time to get the right things so that your home becomes a paradise of fun, comfort and ease . 1. A, Audio system of the whole house if you like more than us, you have different speakers all around home, some bluetooths, some wired, some that require an amplifier, some that must be recharged or that their batteries change periodically. Cut the cacophony and connect your home for the sound. One of the most difficult parts to insert an integral sound system is cutting through the ceilings and walls to run wires and install the speakers, but if you still under construction, this part is a breeze .Working with a wire kit Your home for sound is one of the simplest ways to go. A kit generally contains a base station plus a series of controllers that can be placed in rooms around home. This allows you to create various areas in your home where you can send several music flows. After choosing a base station, you would like to select the speakers that fit into the walls or ceilings and even connect them to the station. Those with repositionable tweeters allow you to direct the sound exactly where you want it, while the loudspeakers with integrated bass and treble controls allow you to further change the sound for each room. When you run the speaker cable through the house, make sure you use the UL-RATED speaker cable marked CL2 or CL3.Photo: Warmboard2. A, radiant floor heating when it comes to making a modern, comfortable and eco-intelligent home feeling, it is difficult to heat radiant floor heating. Installed up or in the substrate, radiant floor heating panels typically use heated water channels that return heat to the floor above them. The result is a wonderful, all the rest that has no allergic worries of forced hot air or one of the irregular heating problems and noise often associated with radiators or electric skirting systems. Today's more intelligent choices for radiant floor heating is heat while making super-conductive panels, which means more heat from the water that crosses the channels is transferred directly to your home. The improved conductivity also means there is less heat loss, which makes the system extremely efficient, and this warbard is also very agile, heating and cooling more quickly than other systems when changing the temperature to the thermostat.3. A, thermal bath The bathroom can be a simple utilitarian space or, with a small planning, can become one of the most luxurious retreats of your home. When designing the bathroom, make sure you leave ample space for the shower and your tub and strengthen the floor below it, so you can install a heavy hot tub. These days, you can buy all-in-one units that contain a massage tank, multiple shower heads and steam functionality and sauna - plus a computer to control them all. It is also possible to mount the televisions resistant to humidity in the walls of the shower or the bathroom area so as not to lose some news or sports actions. If it's all too extreme for you, consider installing a remote control for the shower or your pool that allows you to get the shower heating before leaving bed. Regarding: A, 10 waterproof gadgets to update yours A, domestic automation There are several options for domestic automation systems that make everything from the control of the lights to warn you when the doors or windows are open, or even when there may be a fire or flood. There are thermostats who learn from your heating and cooling models and can be controlled via smartphone. There are speakers who can also be controlled by the phone and can play different melodies throughout the house. And at least a company makes a hub that can tie wire all together. Although it's easy to install home automation equipment in an existing home, thus, while you can still build, make sure you get everything exactly where you need it before taking control of your smartphone and pilot your home Like Starship Enterprise.photo: Kalamazoo Kitchens5. A, outdoor kitchen there was a time when the houses had summer kitchens ... separate buildings where the food was prepared during the hottest months to keep the heat of the main accommodations. Even if the summer kitchens are one thing of the past, the logic remains: cooking outside keeps you from having to turn on the oven when the time feels from an oven similar to himself. When planning your outdoor kitchen, keep in mind that you'€ ll want to have easy access to lead utility programs in a line for the sink line, unloading and gas, if your home has natural gas service (in case Contrary, you'€ ll manage your grid and steps from a propane plan, then make sure you build in the space to keep the tank). While you can build your outdoor kitchen off the stone where you can set your sink surfaces and cook, a cheaper option is to build the structure out of the wood and face it with stone veneer that will take place and Create an equally attractive look.This article was taken to you from Warmboard.ã, his facts and opinions are those of bobvila.com. To wire with the molding of the traditional house crown, Berkemeyer passed the lockers with details that echo it. The glass fronts illuminated in the central section of the upper surface give a hot glow. 5 of 12 Dream House for families The main bathroom was a popular topic with our members of the Focus group, who wanted to be a generous grooming area for two people and a generously appointed refuge. Granted their wishes, creating a foot space from 14 per 22 accented with gold satin gold marble, in squares on the floor, and in a brick model on the wall-in-fenced shower walls, next page. A limestone fireplace heats marble, as well as the Cushy and natural bearing - covered chaise that is perfect for relaxing. A shell chandelier carpet and zebra skin rev up the wow factor and echo some of the upholstery in the family room. 6 of 12 Dream House for families without a shower similar to Spa Spa Be complete without a large bench seat and multiple bollards. This fence has a water-mounted water source, another interior and a hand sprayer. 7 of 12 Dream House for families The adjacent living room with blue and green silk curtains, an elegant linen sofa, and a mirror coffee table, is markedly feminine in style. It's a perfect place for the lady of the house to relax and get away from everything. 8 of 12 Dream House for families The classic colonial style is large and perfectly symmetrical. With a mix of natural stone and coating of Cedar, the house harmonizes with its wooded environment. A graceful, circular, gravel driveway allows cars to enter and exit easily to ... and with large plances. 9 of 12 Dream House for families Our panel wanted a flexible space just outside the kitchen, above.
