Of course, almost everything needs to go through a certain process, but the game optimizes many things to make the world operate happily and vividly. That is also why the game is widely loved when it always gives players new things to explore and entertain. Besides, special interactive systems will always open up based on the player's progress and let them become whoever they want, even build a family, create a career, and more. DESIGN AND CREATE YOUR DESIRED CHARACTER In this game, players will interact with Sims, which represents a living creature in this virtual world, and players can customize the entire character according to the way they want. Through that system, basic physical characteristics can be easily changed, such as hair color, color skin, hairstyle, eye color, facial bone structure, and many more factors. In addition, the game will add everything the player needs to create the desired character, and even that creates many other extra elements such as interaction with NPCs or actions suitable for the body development. The game will add all social activities or services essential to the game to enrich the gameplay, and players can interact with them directly according to their individual needs. Besides using the service as a regular resident, players can entertain or explore the city the way they want and enjoy all the fun that the city offers. In the future, players will gradually unlock new content depending on the character development direction, such as career, fame, and more. BUILD YOUR HOUSES ON VARIOUS PLACES Besides a virtual world with authenticity, The Sims will let players build a home they dreamed of. However, players need to purchase plots or the scale of each place to start with, and all the building materials or designs are free for players to enjoy being creative. The design system will be tweaked and optimized superiorly and also allow players to customize every detail with ease. After all, players need to buy all the furniture inside and gradually decorate them to create a home to live happily with their family. GET PROMOTED, BUILD RELATIONSHIP, AND BECOME FAMOUS In this game, players can choose to be whatever they love, and each different job or expertise is developed in-depth and a wide range of accessibility for players. Whatever the player chooses, they need to do their best in their career, get promoted, attract more attention, create relationships, and more. All the basic details in a job will be fully reproduced and detailed, thereby giving players a series of discoveries to their lives. Above all, players can build a family with the people they love and start living through many different moments of life.
