A dog finds the meaning of his existence through the life of human beings he meets. A dog's journey is for animal lovers and people everywhere they love a good story. Ethan (Dennis Quaid) and his wife Hannah (Marg Helgenberger) are helping to grow their nephew C.j. After their son died. C.J. And Mother of him, glory (Betty Gilpin), live with them. But despite Ethan's love for his dog Bailey and Him and Hannah shower their beautiful niece with love and attention, glory doesn't like dogs or living with them. She is vulnerable from her husband's death, and she decides to take C. J. and leave, which breaks the hearts of Ethan and Hannah. Pray their daughter-in-law to stay, but not to take advantage. Jump ahead several years and c.j. It is seen before a girl and next to as a young woman (beautifully portrayed by Kathryn Prescott), still living with her mother that she is never at home and drinks a lot. If it weren't for Trento's friendship (Henry Lau) there would be a lot of spark in her life. And even if Bailey went to that big dog house in the sky, he returns like a female dog named Molly, and later as big dog, and even later as a little cute terrier named Max. It is always present to protect CJ She knows she likes writing songs and singing, but not much more is gelstone in her life of her. She goes through a pair of boyfriends, but runs in her Trent's old herd, who has just moved to New York after working in England for a while. Although no one will admit it, C.J. And Trent feel feelings for the other that go beyond friendship. As Max looks, he thinks about this movie is that it's not just a nice movie. Actually presents some dramatic themes like the mother of C.j. Being a poor mother with a drink problem, and Trent descends with cancer, losing her hair but ever hope of him. C.J. It is there for him too support him and take care of him too. Ethan and Hannah try to see C.j. When he is bigger, but glory rejects once again and breaks their hearts a second time. The film has a bit of humor overflowing here and there is no excessively dramatic. When C.J. Enter the dog, now known as Molly, the dog runs in the room of C.j. And immediately attack a cat poster on the wall and brings it down! Since believing in your ability is important, let's see a good example of this in the film when Trent encourages C.j. To overcome his scenic fright and singing in front of people, the thing he knows that he is destined to do. Love and affection of dogs, with mutable bailey breeds, opens humorous moments, but also shows the loyalty of dogs at their â € œFamiliesâ €. Ethan and Hannah will ever see c.j.? Will glory ever sober and realize that she was a bad mother? C.J. And will Trent finally admit their feelings for each other? C.J. will never sing in front of the You'll have to watch the movie to seeHistory resolutions are well managed. Because of some mature scenes, such as C.J.'s first boyfriend, Shane, strongly grasping his and shaking her, and various other sophisticated themes including death and pain, we are prepping this film our dove seal for age 12+. The dove taken: if you love a good story, good actors and animals, not to mention some laughs, this fascinating film is for you! A dog's journey is the sequel for the purpose of a dog from a very beloved dog (2017), both based on bestselling books written by W. Bruce Cameron. As in the first film, this sequel concerns the many lives of Bailey, the dog (expressed by Josh Gad), who reincarnated again and again so that he could find a owner to protect and love. Start the dog's journey. With Bailey living on a farm with his 'Boy', Ethan (Dennis Quaid) and Ethan's wife, Hannah (Marg Helgenberger). When Hannah's son dies tragically, his widow, Gloria (Betty Gilpin) and daughter, clarity June â e «GJ» (Emma Volk), come to stay with Ethan and Hannah. CJ loves farm life, and Ethan and Hannah loves her. But Gloria's softening her husband's loss and fighting to take care of CJ. Gloria's insecureness and selfishness have cast a shadow on everyone's life. CJ. Ethan and Hannah are devastated. Bailey feels their pain and shortly after, while Bailey dies, Ethan asks him to come back and find CJ and protect her. This begins Bailey's adventure through multiple lives like Molly, Big Dog and Max. Molly helps a solitary, the 11-year-old cj (Abby Ryder Fortson) tackles with her alcoholic and negligent mother. Many years later in New York City, Max finds CI (Kathryn Prescott) needs love and company and gather together with his best friend, Trent (Henry Lau). Together they experience the joy of cracking, music, love and laughter before finally returning home. Temasfamily Breakdown; Death; reincarnation; addiction to alcohol; repeated death of dogs; neglect; domestic violence; severe disease; Report Dog trip Violence has violence. For example: an aggressive young man grabs the cj adolescent cj approximately, and Molly bites his leg to let him go. The man screams, "we'll kill that stupid ex-boyfriend by pursuing CJ and Molly in his truck while driving at night. CJ continues to try to get away from him and becomes more frightened while chase continues. After he rambles the car with his truck, CJ loses control. This causes his car to quit, flies through the air and the ground below in the incoming traffic. CJ is misconception and cut into the accident but survives, but Molly is fatally wounded and is found between the crushed glass. CJ is devastated trying to help Molly. CJ is Angius as you testify to her beloved dog to die for. The scene is intense and very emotional and could be distressing for many spectators. Induced adulthood, CJ's boyfriend grabs the aggressive arm a a that he left. Max and his friend canine ringhian and bark at the man until he lets himself go. A journey of Dogâ | has sexual references. For example: When a young man grabs the teenage CJ, she tells him to come down. When CJ tells his drunk mother that a man attacked her, Gloria blames CJ for the attack. She says: "Did you provoke it or what? » A standing dog looks between the front legs something we can not see and says: "No, this time I'm a girl." The dog comments on people who lick their face, which means they are kissing. Ethan and Hannah share a romantic dance in their kitchen. Alcohol, drugs and other substances. For example: Gloria is an alcoholic. He often drinks wine or has a glass of wine in his hand in front of his young daughter. Gloria often insults her words and Molly points out that she smells like alcohol. A boy at a drug party, swapping small envelopes in exchange for money. Teenagers drink at a party and CJ is encouraged to drink a beer. When the police are called, CJ is caught with a cup of beer and is arrested. Nutrition and sexual activity A trip of Doga's provides nudity and sexual activity. For example: CJ and a young man who meets in a minimarket are passionately kissed in the front seat of his car. Couples kiss at a party. Gloria often wears very succinct and revealing clothes, including tight tops, shorts, diving necklines and so on. CJ and Trent kiss. The dog comments on how to lick faces. Gloria stays out all night and takes a man home for breakfast. Product placement There is no explicit product placement in A Doga's Journey, although Bailey loves to eat Cheetos and dried meat in one of his lives. A Journey of Customs has some insults, including "stupid", "stupid scene where a dog sticks his nose in the back of a woman, pushes her into a children's pool and says: "Maybe you wanted to put my nose in my ass." Ideas to discuss with your childrenA trip to Dogâ's is a fun, exciting and touching drama, which attracts the ropes of the heart and attracts a diverse audience, even if it is the most suitable for families with older children or teenagers. The film touches serious themes, but also offers powerful messages on friendship and love. The main messages of this film concern learning to love without conditions. The film also suggests that human beings are increasingly happy with the company (human or canine), which we are not destined to live our lives alone and that we always end where we should be. The values of this movie you could strengthen with your children include strength, self-confidence, forgiveness, empathy, perseverance, loyalty. the strong bond between people and their domestic, and the importance of loving friends and family. This movie could also give you the chance to talk to youchildren on real issues such as: alcoholism and the effects that excessive drinking can have on relationships men and victims- striking the negative impact of "fat grinding" on self-esteem, especially when people close to you do it the harmful effects of parents neglect the importance of choosing your friends carefully and trust your instinct the need to ask for help and be there for your friends even when no other is. On paper, the journey of a dog should be a light-hearted comedy. Another movie where do we hear the inner thoughts of a lovely home-pet? Sounds pretty simple. But be warned: as his predecessor - 2017 A Dog's Purpose - this rata in Bailey's history the "dog boss" is not afraid to trample the territory really dark. I would say that this film is a wolf in sheep clothing - the script (credited to four different writers) touches everything from parents absent to existential terror to alcoholism and addiction. The dog not only dies; the dog dies four separate times. Then again, this is the perverse power at the center of this unlikely franchise. After all, the protagonist Bailey is a happy-go-lucky canine with infinite reincarnation. When we meet him at the beginning of Journey, he is living great on the farm of his old owner Ethan (now played by Dennis Quaid, in his second ridiculous turn this month.) But there is difficulty in the package: The daughter of Ethan Gloria (Betty Gilpin) is becoming resentful of the antiquated rural lifestyle and threatens to leave with Ethan CJ's nephew. It is during these opening moments that a dog's journey serves its most delicious and absurd sequence, involving a horse, a dog and the child CJ. Alas, things quickly crash into tear-off rule, as Gloria hits the road and Ethan gives Bailey a mission: find and protect the young CJ. Even with a relatively merciful runtime of a hundred minutes, A Dog's Journey still manages to bring out his welcome before credits roll. From here, the narrative spurts-and-starts, occasionally flashing years forward at a time. release in the dog-penne-out-loud burial film (it should be noted that last year A Dog's Way Home is connected only in name.) Veteran Gail Mancuso's television director takes the realms behind the camera, decreasing his trust on staggering gags and disorienting shots from Bailey's point of view. Josh Gad comes back to Bailey's inner thoughts, and sounds a little more present and engaged this time around. Quaid, on the other hand, totally phones in his scenes, which tend to boil down to him making funny faces to his pet. Since Bailey does not have a lot of agency on history, aCI adult (Kathryn Prescott) takes the center of the scene. Prescott is fine, slightly-friendly as the script throws a sled of curves arms the road. The journey is the Hollywood debut of South Korean superstar Henry Lau, who plays the adult version of CJ's best friend (and potential love interest) Trent. It's nice to see an Asian portrayal in a major Hollywood publication; on the other hand, the characterization of her parents as "rigorous and academically rigorous" plays on offensive stereotypes (as well as being completely useless). Even with a relatively merciful runtime of one hundred minutes, A Dogâ¦s Journey still manages to exhaust its welcome before the credits arrive. Honestly, I don't know what else there is to say about this lazily written and almost competent film. There's not much to recommend here, and it's a bit of a hassle.
